Reichstag Is Convoked For Friday For a Speech By Chancellor Hitler

Talk Is Calculated To Answer Innumerable Questions That German Citizens Have Been Asking About the Recent Executions.

CHURCH QUESTION

Question Raised in Political Circles Whether Hitler Will Touch in Address Upon the Church.

Berlin, July 10 (AP)—The Reichstag was convoked today for Friday for a speech by Chancellor Hitler on events which made the executions of June 30 necessary.

Chancellor Hitler, who since June 30, the date of climactic events marking the beginning of the "second revolution" has kept silent, once more will use the forum of the so-called National Parliament to address the nation and the world.

His speech is calculated to answer innumerable questions that German citizens and foreigners have been asking in explanation of the executions of June 30.

The Reichstag has not met since January 20, this year, when Chancellor Hitler gave an exhaustive account of the first year of his stewardship.

It is part of Hitler's policy to call the Reichstag together on only the most important occasions when the attention of the entire world is focused upon such a meeting, and then have the representatives or the people endorse his policies by loud acclaim.

Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, when he called the Reichstag together on June 30, stated that Hitler would address the nation probably the same night, or at least the next day.

Eleven days have elapsed since then, during which the nation has waited in vain to hear "Der Fuehrer."

Instead, two of his closest collaborators, Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and Rudolf Hess, minister without portfolio, addressed the nation. Goebbels is scheduled to give another address to-night.

The Church Question.

In political circles the question is being raised whether Hitler will touch in his speech to the Reichstag upon the church question.

The German Reichstag, Parliament of the Reich, abdicated on March 23, 1933, after passing an empowering act granting Chancellor Hitler's demand for four years of dictatorial power.

After that date the Nazi party, headed by Hitler, was in supreme control of affairs in Germany.

Provisions were made, however, for safeguarding the institution of the Reichstag as "an order of the Reich for the representation of the German People" under a measure called the "bill for ending of the ills of the people and the state."

Under the terms of the bill government legislation is valid without reference to the Reichstag.

The government puts before it reports on policy. According to various official declarations, Democratic sanction for government policy on any particular issue may be sought by popular referendum and a bill of July 14, 1933, gave the government the right of referring any intended measure to a direct vote of the people.

A 24-HOUR GENERAL STRIKE DUE IN HAVANA

Havana, July 10 (AP)—The Communist Federation of Labor put last minute touches today to plans for a "24-hour general strike" starting at midnight Wednesday in protest against the continued imprisonment of political prisoners now on a hunger-strike.

The union demands the release of all the prisoners now on the hunger strike. Government officials characterized the confederation's move as an attempt to stage a "political strike" and took steps to thwart it.

Jury Being Picked

San Francisco, July 10 (AP)—Selection of a jury to hear the trial of William R. Hickman, 45-year-old married engineer accused of the murder of Louise Jappesen, 23, of Ogden, Utah, continued here today.

Nine men and three women were in the jury box but both defense and prosecution will hold unused peremptory challenges. That the testimony of Rionde Blanche McKay, 25, who claims to have been with Hickman in his room at the time Jappesen was attacked and strangled in Golden Gate Park, will figure prominently in the trial was indicated by the defense.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, July 10 (AP)—The portion of the treasury July 7 was: Receipts, $17,648,576.73; expenditures, $17,648,710.25; balance, $2,442,562.10; customs receipts for the month, $2,545,795.24. Receipts for the fiscal year since July 1 were $2,545,795.24; expenditures, $1,119,445,809 (after deducting net deficiency receipts of $1,473,315.74); excess of emergency expenditures, $1,119,445,809; total assets, $7,874,449,259.84.

Roosevelt's Visit To Old Cartagena Sets New Historical Phase

First Visit of United States President To South American Nation While Still in Office—Once Strongest New World City.

Washington, July 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt's visit to old Cartagena writes a new page in Pan-American history.

His call at the Republic of Colombia's second most important port is the first visit an American President ever paid, while in office, to a South American nation.

There are many things to stir historic memories in this city, which lies about 300 miles almost due east of the Panama Canal.

Cartagena, once the strongest fortified city in the new world, was old when Jamestown was founded. An early settlement of the Spanish conquistadors, it became a treasure vault of the riches they collected for shipment to their mother country.

Dubbed "The Heroic" and "Queen of the Indies," Cartagena was sacked a half dozen times by buccaners.

England, too, aspired to capture it. In 1741 Admiral Vernon and 178 Englishmen attacked the city, but were finally beaten off by the Spaniards.

Cartagena has a convent built in 1539. It was the center of the first inquisition in America.

The ancient forts and walls, 80 feet thick in places, and costing nearly 100 million dollars when built two centuries ago, make it one of the most picturesque of colonial cities.

In these modern days, Colombia and the United States have tackled the problem of trade. They have drafted a trade treaty which, however, has not yet been announced. The Colombian Congress will consider the pact within a week.

Once upon a time, the relations between the two people were not so cordial. Thirty years ago, President Theodore Roosevelt incurred the wrath of the Colombians. They maintained he used the "big stick" in supporting the severance of Panama from Colombia so that the United States could acquire right-of-way for the Panama Canal from the Panamanian revolutionaries.

Gypsies Fined $5, Get Suspended Sentence

Band of Gypsies Caught After Chase That Involved Troopers, Deputies and Police Officers—Charged With Stealing $8 From Boicerville Man.

Two members of a band of gypsies, charged with stealing $8 from Victor Donigan at Boicerville Monday afternoon, were lucky to get off with a fine of $5 and a 30 days suspended sentence when arraigned before Justice Thomas Braithwaite at Shokan Monday night.

The gypsies were stopped and taken into custody by Sergeant Lockhart, Corporal Baker and Trooper Linn Baker, about two miles south of Highland after a chase that had involved a number of state troopers, deputies from the sheriff's office and officers of the police department.

The party was brought to Kingston by the troopers and then taken before Justice Braithwaite by Trooper Metzger and Deputy Sheriffs Vredenburg and Riossa.

The two gypsies arraigned gave their names as Pulish and Yovin Yonko. According to the story told by Donigan, he was mowing on his farm at Boicerville when the gypsies stopped and asked for a match. Later, after Mr. Donigan had moved around his field a couple of times he happened to glance down and saw his wallet lying on the ground. He opened it up, only to find it was empty, although he was certain that it contained $8 at the time the gypsies appeared. The state troopers and sheriff's office were notified and the band trailed until they were finally stopped below Highland.

Louisiana Negro Lynched for Attack

Bastrop, La., July 10 (AP)—A young negro farmer lay dead in an undertaking establishment today, lynched by a mob after officers reported he had confessed an attempted attack on a prominent white girl.

Three hundred men hanged Andrew McLeod, 25, from the limb of an oak tree on the court house square here late last night despite his cries and pleas for mercy.

McLeod was accused of attempting to attack the 19-year-old girl early Sunday near Jones, La., 30 miles from here. He was arrested Sunday and officers were preparing to file formal charges against him at the time the mob battered down the door of the small brick jail house last night and entered him.

State Capitol, Albany, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—Reminding the New York Legislature that it has ignored his pleas and the pleas of his predecessors, Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt, for government reorganization, Governor Lehman today asked the legislature in special session to enact laws simplifying county government in New York city and up-state "at the earliest possible moment."

"There is no need of my repeating this recommendation at this time," the Governor said, after calling the law makers' attention to his previous program.

Taking into consideration the political turmoil surrounding the local government issue, the chief executive asked for bi-partisan legislation for the "modernization and simplification of county government throughout the state."

"My interest has been and is exclusively in good government, in business like government and economical government," Mr. Lehman said. "At no time have I been concerned in the least degree with partisan political advantage. In fact, the record shows that the legislation sponsored by me to effectuate my recommendations for the modernization of county government was introduced by members of both parties."

Wants Full Cooperation.

Mr. Lehman continued: "During this extraordinary session I trust that constitutional amendments, both with respect to the counties in New York city and up-state, will be sponsored by members of both parties. It is my earnest hope that constitutional amendments will be approached to a non-political manner and be approved by both houses of the legislature by overwhelming nonpartisan votes."

The governor did not mention the other four subjects which he has indicated he will lay before the legislature. They are: Relief for guaranteed mortgage certificate holders; additional appropriation for state aid to schools; an appropriation for bovine tuberculosis elimination, and congressional reappointment.

The governor reminded the legislators that "during a period of many years my two immediate predecessors in office, on many occasions, urged the necessity of reform in local government," and that "the legislature continuously ignored their strong pleas."

Mr. Lehman's two predecessors were Alfred E. Smith and President Roosevelt. Mr. Smith now is chairman of the New York city charter revision commission. The present legislative session was called at his behest.

Need Statewide

"The need of reform in county government is statewide," he said. "It is necessary and beneficial in New York city and it is necessary and beneficial in upstate counties. Too long, in my opinion, the taxpayers have been made to bear an unjustified burden. Too long, have they had to pay for inefficiency, waste and duplication of governmental functions. Too long, have they had to pay the cost of maintaining sinecure positions."

"Today, however, the taxpayers in every part of this state demand reform in local government more up to date in structure, more businesslike, more efficient and more economical. It is plain that the achievement of their desires will lessen the load of local taxation, borne mainly by real estate."

TAMMANY HALL WILL GET NEW CHIEF NEXT MONDAY

New York, July 9 (AP)—Tammany Hall, without a leader since John F. Curry was deposed several weeks ago, will get a new chief next Monday.

The political organization's district leaders, divided into three camps over selection of Curry's successor, determined at a meeting yesterday to go ahead with an election Monday by the executive committee.

The three leading candidates are James J. Dooley, Stephen Ruddy and Edward J. Ahearn. All are district leaders.

60 Jailed in Turkey.

Istanbul, Turkey, July 10 (AP)—The government struck today at persecution of Jews in eastern Thrace. Sixty persons were sent to prison after being adjudged guilty of attacks on Jews. Large numbers of others were arrested and were put through grueling interrogation, advised stated. A government proclamation demanded that thieves return, under penalty of long imprisonment, goods stolen from Jewish citizens. The situation is returning to normal, but some 3,000 Jewish refugees still remain in Istanbul, fearing to return to Thrace.

British Aid For France In Franco-Belgian Area Indicated By M. Barthou

French Foreign Minister on Departure from London Hints That Help Is Assured in Case of Invasion.

RELATIONS CORDIAL

Points of View Hinge on Security For France and 1935 Naval Parley in London.

London, July 10 (AP)—Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, indicated today on his departure that Britain will go to the aid of France in case the Franco-Belgian area is invaded by a foreign power.

The formal Anglo-French conversations were concluded early this afternoon. The extent of the understanding arrived at between the two nations during two days of negotiations, was still clothed in official secrecy.

An official statement said "friendly conversations made it possible for the two governments to clearly appreciate their respective points of view on the questions under discussion."

"These questions included French proposals for additional mutual security in eastern Europe, the future of the disarmament conference and preparations for the 1935 naval conference."

Barthou was understood to have replied to Jaldwin's assurances that never have Anglo-French relations been more cordial, of more mutual value, and of more value to the peace of Europe.

Although secrecy surrounded this phase of the Anglo-French exchanges, informed circles felt that Barthou will be satisfied with whatever technical collaboration Britain has agreed to give to France under certain circumstances.

In contrast to the success of negotiations at that point, there was a well-founded belief that Barthou was unable to change the British attitude toward eastern European security pacts.

The British do not oppose the pacts which the French appreciate—but they continued to maintain that such pacts are "France's babies," and Britain has no connection with them.

Whether general disarmament questions will be linked with the 1935 naval conference apparently remained undecided.

Barthou, in this morning's session, tried to get the British to agree to a general conference. It was learned, but the French suggestion was left in abeyance temporarily.

Discussions on naval problems will continue here for several days.

Informal conversations were continued today at a private luncheon given by Acting Prime Minister Baldwin. Barthou was to return to Paris late this afternoon.

NEWBURGH MAN JAILED FOR ALMOYNY DEFAULT

Newburgh, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—Clifford Parliman, recently married to the former Dorothy Britton, bathing beauty, was in jail today because his former wife contends he is behind $420 on alimony payments.

Parliman, reputedly a wealthy real estate operator of Clements Falls, near here, was apprehended yesterday by Deputy Sheriff William Earley. Parliman is held on a contempt of court allegation. His divorced wife claims he has not paid her alimony since May 1.

Miss Britton visited her husband last night and again today, the sheriff said.

G. O. P. National Committee Chairman Charges NRA Violates State's Rights

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN ASSERTS NEW DEAL IMPERILS CONSTITUTION: Henry P. Fletcher, in first public appearance as chairman of Republican National Committee, fires the first gun in party's campaign, at Jackson, Mich., where the birth of the party 80 years ago was celebrated with a political rally.

Chicago, July 10 (AP)—The G. O. P. pointed today one of its major attacks of the forthcoming fall campaign on the NRA laws passed in approximately one third of the states of the union.

This line of campaigning was disclosed by Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, newly elected chairman of the Republican national committee, who came to Chicago with other leaders of his party to map a drive to win congressional seats in the agricultural midwest, and to seek financial backing for the political war ahead.

"I had not realized fully," the Republican chairman said in an interview, "the extent to which" the national administration has gone in the invasion of state rights. I shall go into the subject thoroughly and shall have a lot more to say about it later. This issue will be taken up specifically in every one of the states in which the legislatures protested themselves so objectively in response to demands from Washington."

While the Republicans were getting together the Democrats planned to do some work on their own account. Postmaster General Farley will speak at Springfield Saturday and confer with Democratic state officials, members of the state committee, county chairman and other leaders.

Ellenville Now Lacks A Water Board Due To 3 Resignations

Functions Of Commissioners Temporarily Carried On By Three Village Trustees—Mayor Ackley Gives Hint Of Board Friction.

The village of Ellenville is now without a Board of Water Commissioners, the three commissioners—C. C. Stauffer, D. F. Vanderlyn and P. Edwin Clark—having tendered their resignations to the trustees of the village on Saturday night. The resignations were accepted.

For the present the functions of the water commissioners are being carried on by three members of the village board of trustees, Mayor Floyd Ackley, Herman J. Levine and Samuel M. Byrne.

Mayor Ackley was in Kingston today, being a witness at the inquest now under way at the court house into the recent airplane crash at Mongaup Mountain.

Asked about the situation in his home town he intimated that there had been more or less friction for some time between the village trustees and the water commissioners, and the matter came to a head when the commissioners were asked to meet with the trustees for a discussion of certain matters. Instead of doing so they sent in their resignations.

The water commissioners have been carrying on extensive operations at Lake Maratanza, on the Shawangunk Mountain, main source of the village water supply. They were also forced to spend large sums of money in repairing damages done by the severe weather last winter and have had under way a project for relaying mains on Center street. The village taxpayers recently voted a bond issue of $25,000 to cover cost of work done at Maratanza, for repairs and new mains.

Mayor Ackley says that two points of difference have been the question as to the wisdom of certain phases of the work at Maratanza and the character of the new pipe which the Board of Water Commissioners have been using on the Center street job. He said that the new pipe is much thicker than that formerly used and has shown a tendency to split and crack, and that the village trustees wanted tests made before more of the pipe was used.

Sullivan County Coroner Fails to Appear By Noon To Give Early Findings

District Attorney Murray Had Intended To Call the Coroner, Who Made the First Investigation Into the Crash.

WEATHER REPORTS

Much of the Morning's Session Taken Up with the Reception of Weather Reports.

Dr. Victor Bourke, Sullivan county coroner who made the first investigation into the crash of the American Airlines Curtiss-Condor plane on Mongaup mountain last June 9 when seven people were killed, did not appear at the inquest called this morning before Coroner Howard B. Humiston. District Attorney Leon B. Murray had intended to call the Sullivan county coroner as his first witness but up until the noon recess Dr. Bourke had not appeared.

Much of the morning session was taken up with the reception of weather reports given by Bernard Wirgin, Federal weather man stationed at the Albany Airport. He produced weather records and maps which were kept hourly, and which he said were available to airport officials. His report is given by teletype each hour to the Albany airport as it is sent to the weather bureau. One significant thing was the fact that at the Newburgh station maintained on the Newburgh-Albany air route, near Newburgh, the ceiling at 5 o'clock was 2,500 feet while at the same hour at Albany there was a ceiling of 4,000 feet. On the route clouds and fog were reported with occasional rain but no thunder storms were reported or shown on the weather map.

Radio Beam to Guide Pilots

Mr. Wirgin said that there was a radio beam originating at Albany which extended down the river to guide pilots. This beam he said originated at Albany and extended down the river to Bear Mountain Bridge. The exact distance depended on the instruments in the plane which might be flying over the beam. He was unable to tell whether the Newburgh beam intersected the Albany beam or not.

The federal air route from New York, N. Y., to Albany was along the river and the radio beam was used on this route by pilots. Weather conditions were checked each hour on this route and special reports were made more frequent if there was any change in the weather. No weather reports were gathered back from the river to the west and he said he knew of no recognized federal air route to the west from Newburgh over the Catskill mountain sections. There were no weather reports supplied to cover this territory.

His records showed that at 2 o'clock on June 9 the ceiling at Newburgh was 2,500 feet with a nine mile visibility and this gradually decreased until at 4 o'clock, standard time, there was but 1,700 feet with a visibility of seven miles. During the day there were broken clouds, overcast conditions and at times sprinkles of rain.

The witness was unable to state whether it was necessary to have a ceiling of 1,500 feet and visibility of 2 miles before a plane was permitted to leave a field.

Asked if there were any thunder storms on the Newburgh-Albany route that day which would require a deviation from the regular route he said there were none. A falling barometer at Newburgh indicated a low pressure or storm area.

Weather reports from Syracuse indicated a ceiling of 4,000 feet at 2 o'clock and at 4 o'clock that evening the ceiling was 3,000 feet. There were no thunder storms reported along the route from Albany to Syracuse.

Station Manager Called.

William A. Garrett, station manager for American Airways at Albany was called today. He said that there was an express route from Newburgh to Albany and Albany local air routes. Whether this ship was a point to follow the beam to a point 20 miles below Albany on the express route and then get on the Albany-Albany route he did not know. The ship was not scheduled to land at Albany and his airport was not notified of its arrival or told of its departure.

A companion ship from Buffalo came into Albany that crashed at about 4:30 bound for Newburgh but he said he could not say whether the ship continued on south to Newburgh or not. He believed it did.

Asked whether it was not true that the ship was grounded at Albany he said he was not sure but he did not believe the trip was cancelled but that the ship went on. He did not have records of ship movements with him.

On the afternoon of June 9 he said four ships had left Albany and completed their trips to Newburgh. He was unable to tell the time but District Attorney Murray read a list of trips and the port manager said that

Killer of Four Waits His Execution Day

Tucker Prison Farm, Ark., July 10 (AP)—Mark H. Shank, his eyes closed and his face expressionless, lay impassively in a death cell today, waiting out the 17 days before he must die for the quadruple poison murder of an Akron, O., family.

Word came to the attorney that his wife, whose letters have been about 100 since he was brought here, is ill and will be unable to visit him before his execution day.

Only action by Governor Frazier can save Shank from electrocution July 27 for killing Alvin Karpis, his wife and two small sons last August in the Saline county woods.

The governor will hear this week the plea of his counsel, Blake Cook, that the former Akron attorney and parish victim of a mental disease, which carries the sufferer "from the heights of egotism to the lowest depths of despair."

Real Drama Is Seen In "The Shining Hour"

"The Shining Hour" at the Bijou Theatre, Rosendale, presents an evening of drama, humor and pathos, but for lovers of tense drama, it's an offering that one would go twice to see.

The story is about an English family of three brothers and a sister. Two of the brothers are married. While their new house is being built, Henry, one of the brothers, and his wife Mariella, move in to live with the rest of the Linden family.

With so many of the same family living under the same roof, trouble is bound to happen—and happen it does. Mariella and David, one of the brothers, fell madly in love. Hannah, the sister, nurses a hatred for Mariella. The situations are tense.

Beverly Bayne plays the lead, that of Henry's wife, Mariella. Miss Bayne is a well known actress and has been on the stage for the past five years. In her first appearance she co-starred in "The Monster Thief." Since then she has been in several New York productions. The most notable was Maax Gordon's "Roberta." Before going on the stage, Miss Bayne was a star on the screen.

Lionel Ince, the English star, did some beautiful acting and took the part of the brother, David Linden. Hannah Linden, the sister, was played by Kathryn Collier. Miss Collier, played the original part of Hannah in the Chicago production of "The Shining Hour."

John Bayd, an old timer and veteran of many Broadway hits, took the part of the oldest brother, Henry. In Judy Linden's role was an inspired performer, Mildred Robins. Miss Robins is a newcomer to the stage, but her acting was that of an experienced star.

John Deering, in the part of Mickey Linden, the youngest brother, rounded out the cast.

The play was staged by George Anderson, under the personal supervision of Sidney Salkow. The setting was designed by Philip Gelb.

Paraguay Jubilant Over Victory Belief

Asuncion, Paraguay, July 10 (AP)—Paraguay was jubilant today over belief she had clinched a decisive victory in the Chaco war.

If Paraguayan hopes are confirmed it appeared likely the army could eject Bolivia from Fort Ballivian, her principal stronghold in a disputed area for which the rival armies have been battling since June 15.

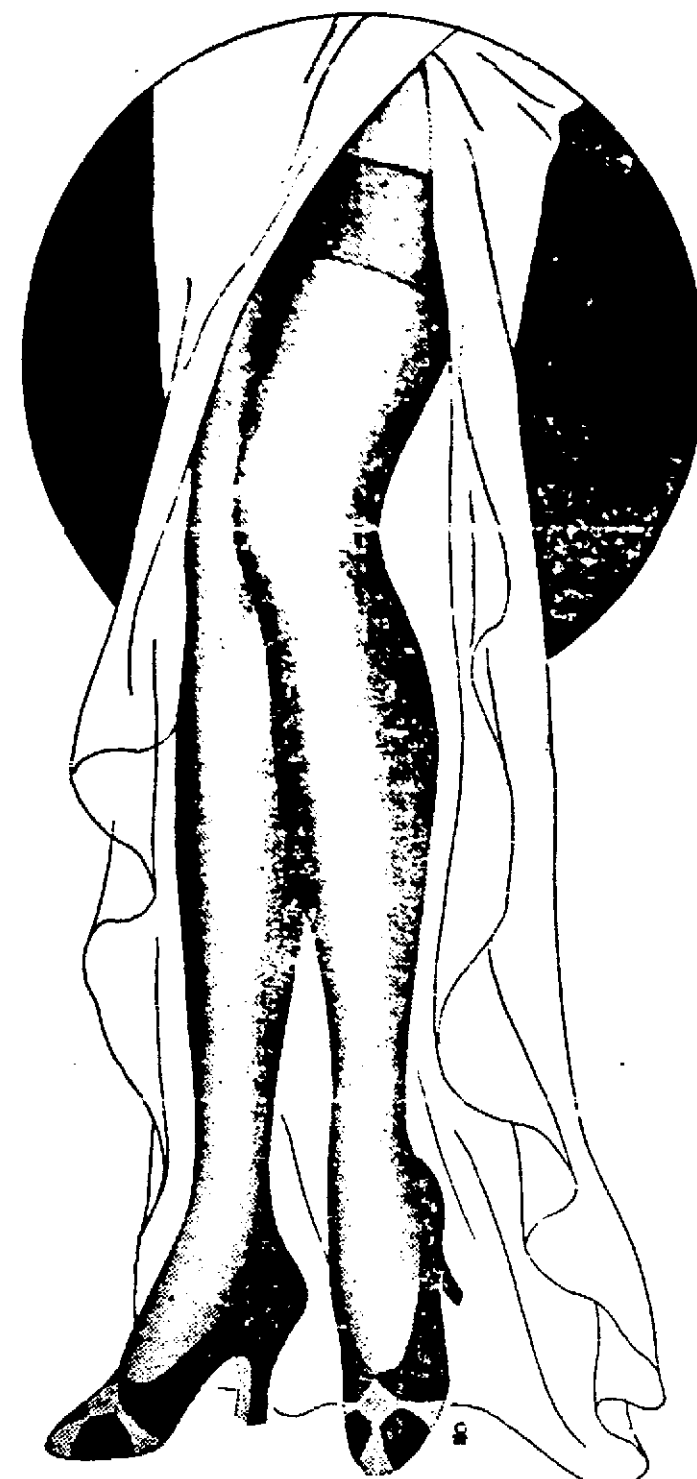

A statement of the ministry of defense claimed Paraguayan forces had taken the third line of defense of Bolivia before the fort and that the enemy was retreating in disorder toward Argentina.

(A Bolivian communique at La Paz said the Paraguayan offensive was checked effectively after it had pierced only an outer line. One Paraguayan plane, the report said, was shot down Sunday and three others put to flight.)

A Paraguayan offensive with a full force of 40,000 following a barrage of 200 cannon Sunday was the fourth major one since March.

A Dress and Halber-Apron Ensemble

A new development in the interesting use of halber as a neckline solution is observed in the decorative apron shown protecting the spotlessness of the white frock in the sketch.

This ensemble combines two fabrics of contrasting types, their affinity for each other being of so happy a nature as to produce the effect of a charming accident. The dress is of cotton broadcloth and the apron gingham with white ruffles. A little number such as this does its owner proud, many times over, when, flushed with some culinary success, she finds herself able to slide out of her apron quickly, and transport herself to the family dinner table looking as fresh as though she were a guest.

The dress of this ensemble is an attractive one cut with straight simple lines curving in at the waistline to produce a trim, neat appearance. The classic simplicity of the style relieves it of the housedress look making it adaptable for marketing and local shopping. Tropical white is, of course, summer's favorite, and when it is used the apron is usually one that reflects the brilliancy of foreign lands. Peasant prints are a pleasing selection and so are the fashionable Mexican patterns that do not show the soil. This ensemble is becoming to all types of figures and comes in a wide range of sizes.

Annual Meeting of Egg Auction Members

The annual membership meeting of the Mid-Hudson Egg Auction Association was held at the Court House here Monday afternoon. Three counties, Columbia, Dutchess and Ulster, were represented by about 40 members. Most of them coming from Ulster county. A. P. Kaplan of Accord, president of the association, presided at the meeting.

Carl Helger was called on for the annual report. He reported a total volume of business of $1,000,000 from July 1, 1933 to June 30, 1934. During this period 19,149 cases of eggs were sold of which over 17,000 were consigned by members from Ulster county.

The election of directors resulted in the election of John W. Helger to succeed J. Hunting Ott, representing Dutchess county, and in the reelection of Joseph McKaigill of Columbia county and John Miller of Ulster county. The members present made generous contributions to further improve the operation of the auction. General satisfaction of the auction was expressed by most of the members present.

After the regular meeting the directors met and organized for 1934-1935. A. P. Kaplan was reelected president, and C. S. Finger vice-president. J. E. Ronner was chosen as secretary-treasurer to succeed Mr. Ott.

CRUEL PUNISHMENT
The knout was a whip used for punishment in Russia and was introduced during the reign of Ivan III in the Fifteenth century, says Pathfinder Magazine. There were several forms but the most familiar kind consisted of several thongs of hide or leather plaited and interwoven with wire. Lacerations from the loose ends of the wire made it a cruel form of punishment and a sentence of 100 lashes upon the bare back was usually the same as a death penalty.

Wiltwyck Club to Have Tennis Courts

There was a full attendance at the monthly meeting of the directors of the Wiltwyck Golf Club, held at the club house on Hurley avenue Monday night. Reports from the various committees showed a most favorable condition of affairs and Maclester Goodman reported the course improving daily.

The directors took action that will lead to still further improvement of the club grounds. It was decided to arrange for the building of two double tennis courts, to be ready for use next spring. These courts will be built in a first class location and when ready will be available for championship tournaments if desired. They will be located between the club house and the parking space. It was also decided to start at once to build a 1-hole putting green and possibly a croquet ground.

A new schedule of green fees was adopted, making the rates for use of the course by the general public and summer visitors still more attractive. The schedule of rates will be found in an advertisement.

Takes Pigs to Market And Gets 68 Cents

Cortland, Ill., July 10 (AP)—Mrs. A. Mosback's 20 pigs went to market and netted her the grand total of 68 cents—a little more than 3 cents for the 1,630 pounds of pork she devoted the time and energy to raise.

The pigs actually sold for $12.22, but reductions of $11.54 had to be made.

Here's why, as explained yesterday by the Chicago Producers' Commission Association:

The pigs, classed as culls, were sold at a time when the market for small swine was depressed because of heavy offerings of light animals during the drought. They brought only 75 cents a hundred pounds.

Marketing costs deducted from the sale price included $2.80 for use of pens, scales and runways at the stockyards, and 55 cents for cartage to the pens.

The insurance company got $1.40 for insuring them against injury en route and 5 cents more to insure them against fire. The truck company took $3.67 for hauling the pigs and the commission house $3 for selling them. The meat board got 7 cents.

That left 68 cents—for Mrs. Mosback.

The packing concern must pay a government processing tax of $2.25 per hundred pounds on the pigs.

Mrs. Antonio May Get New Executive Stay

Albany, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Antonio, scheduled to die, with two companions, Thursday night for the murder of her husband two years ago, may receive a long stay as a result of an appeal which Daniel H. Prior, her attorney, plans to make to Governor Lehman today.

John T. Delaney, district attorney, who prosecuted Mrs. Antonio and her alleged accomplices, Sam Feraci and Vincent Saetta, is reported to be willing that Governor Lehman stay the execution of the trio until the Court of Appeals has a chance to review a statement of Saetta's made the night of June 28, less than an hour before the trio were originally scheduled to be put to death.

The statement already the basis for two stays granted by the governor, exonerated Mrs. Antonio from complicity in the crime. The state contended during the trial that the 28-year-old mother hired Feraci and Saetta to kill her husband for the insurance carried by him.

Delaney had opposed the granting of a new trial to Mrs. Antonio on the basis of Saetta's statement. Judge Earl H. Gallup denied Prior's motion for a new trial last week.

Inventor Has Method For 3-Minute Whisky

Buffalo, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—New method for distilling whisky—Chemist's Patent Demonstrations.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—Raw whisky, aged and mellowed in three minutes by a new electrical process, was the goal claimed today by a Buffalo engineer after a demonstration before scientific observers.

The process, invented by Edward Butler, mechanical engineer, consists of an electric treatment of a raw distillate and ground oak pulp from the wood in which the liquor is usually aged. No other chemical ingredients are required and the inventor claims the process, by eliminating ageing steps which usually take months and years in complete, will revolutionize the distilling industry.

The demonstrations of the "aging machine" were attended by Dr. Albert P. Sy of the chemistry department of the University of Buffalo, and Dr. Arthur B. Adams of Pittsburgh, head chemist of the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue for more than 20 years. In the process a raw distillate was put into the machine with the ground oak pulp and thousands of volts of electricity shot through the mixture. After distilling and bubbling in the machine, the liquid changed to the amber shade of mellow whisky.

After the demonstration Dr. Sy spoke highly of the possibilities of the process but reserved his decision of the finished product pending an analysis. He said he doubted if the treated whisky would remain mellow after it had been standing for six months or a year. Butler stated however, he had liquor which was artificially aged six months ago and tests have proved it unchanged.

Hollywood Dusts Off Old Code of Morals

Hollywood, Calif., July 10 (AP)—The motion picture industry looked today to a forgotten code of morals and Will H. Hays to lead it out of the wilderness of asserted indecency in films.

Returning to Hollywood from New York, the president of the association of motion picture producers in a statement concerning the strong criticism heaped upon the movies by religious organizations, said: "Some of it may be justified; some may be entirely unwarranted—all of it is understood, none of it is resented."

He refused to comment upon the virtual demand of a leading member of the inter-faith conference in New York that he give up his post.

In the heat of the attack upon its productions, Hollywood suddenly recalled that four years ago it had drawn up a code of morals. A re-reading of the almost forgotten code showed that had Hollywood adhered to the principles laid down there probably would have been no need to spread oil on troubled waters.

Mississippians Vote On "Bone Dry" Law

Jackson, Miss., July 9 (AP)—Mississippians voted today on whether to scrap the state's 25-year-old "bone-dry" law.

The voters scratched one of the shortest ballots ever submitted the state's electorate, thus directly expressing for the first time their views on the liquor question.

A voter may ballot against legalization in both the state and county, or for county prohibition and statewide repeal or vice versa. In event a majority favors statewide repeal, liquor will be sold only in those counties which vote for it.

Polls in the rural sections opened at 7 a. m. (central standard time) and in the cities an hour later. All voting places close at 6 p. m.

The Arctic tern is given credit as the greatest traveler. It nests in the summer as far north as there is land, and in the winter has been known to travel 11,000 miles to the South, returning in the spring to the Arctic circle.

Wild Chase Started To Locate Millions

Seattle, July 10 (AP)—The ancient old lady who stole a soap from hotel bathrooms and wrapped it in $1,000 bills for safekeeping, started the administrator of the estate of Sarah E. Smith-Scollard today on a wild chase that will lead him across the United States and Canada in search of missing millions.

Wimmon Tucker, Seattle attorney, was appointed administrator when Mrs. Smith-Scollard's peculiar will was admitted to probate. She left $1 to her sister, Mrs. Margaret Greeley Fitzpatrick, of Oakland, and $1 to her divorced husband, F. E. Scollard, believed to be in Canada.

The remainder of the estate goes to the "legal heirs," Denton G. Byrdick, Seattle, former speaker of the Oregon House of Representatives, said the title "legal heirs" devolves upon Mrs. Fitzpatrick, and then upon her children.

Nobody knows the present value of her estate. A woman who would hide half a million dollars in a clock, wear a 10-carat diamond on a camping trip and carry $250,000 worth of jewels around town in a handbag might have done anything, investigators said, with the fortune once estimated at $15,000,000.

Counsel for the heirs, intimating large sums would be unearthed within a few days, said their search would take them into banks of five states and Canada.

Wild Gun Battle Gives New Dillinger Scare

Fond Du Lac, Wis., July 10 (AP)—A wild gun battle between deputy sheriffs and a band of gunmen riding in a large automobile led to rumors John Dillinger was on another rampage, and sent Wisconsin peace officers on an extensive manhunt today. One of the gunmen was believed to have been wounded.

The fight, which occurred on a highway near here yesterday, left a maze of conflicting details but no tangible evidence that the elusive Indiana band man was involved.

The finding of a bullet punctured small automobile (a Ford) abandoned in a ravine, preceded the gunplay. While the deputies were driving the bullet-riddled machine to Fond du Lac, a large gray car approached, and as it drew near the officers, its occupants opened fire with a machine gun and sped away. The deputies answered the volley.

Federal officials were rushed to the scene by Melvin Purvis, chief of the Chicago bureau, on reports that Dillinger might have been involved.

Two Aviation Groups Busy in Washington

Washington, July 10 (AP)—Two boards concentrated today on plotting a new course for American aviation—civilian and military.

One, the aviation commission created by President Roosevelt and headed by Clark Howell, Atlanta publisher, gathered to start its job. It will recommend what future guidance and financial assistance the government should give the airlines and plane-making industry.

The other, under the leadership of Newton D. Baker, studied the first draft of a report to Secretary Dern on a three months investigation of the army air corps.

Men's Federation.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Federation of Men's Clubs will be held at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

Farm, Home Bureau Picnic Here August 23

At a meeting of the people committee representing the three branches of the Farm and Home Bureau Association Monday night it was decided to hold the big annual picnic Thursday, August 23 at Forsyth Park in Kingston. The Hotel Stein is cooperating and will conduct a milk bar at which ice cream and various forms of milk will be sold. The Home Bureau will have charge of all the remainder of the refreshments. Fred DuBois of

New Paris is general chairman of the picnic. He will be assisted by representatives of the four cooperating organizations.
Plans are being made for a big crowd. Since the County Fair has been brought to Kingston, the picnic day of games and visiting can be enjoyed. It will be like a reunion of friends from all parts of the county, including the city of Kingston.

New York, July 10.—When Arctic talks to Antarctica via the CBE chain tomorrow night it will be over one of the longest radio-wave circuits ever.

Starting at a point about 250 miles north of Nome on the barren coast of Alaska, the circuit by short wave will touch Honolulu, then jump over to San Francisco. The next leap, to New York, will be via land wire. Short waves again come to form the last two links, New York to Buenos Aires and thence to Little America. Altogether that is approximately 22,150 miles.

This feature, part of which will be a two-way conversation between Bob Flieger, in charge of the Arctic station, and Charles J. V. Murphy, Radio Operator at Little America, will be in the regular CBE broadcast.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "The House of Rothschild." The recent history of the European scene was never more glamorously visualized than this story of the House of the Rothschilds, the Jewish banking house whose millions financed wars on the continent, and whose Jewish blood brought endless persecution. The greatest banking power in history, the sons of Rothschild swear to their dying father that they will work hand in hand. No brother is to fail if any of the others is successful. So these five brothers spread their banking power throughout the capitals of Europe, and become both powerful and feared. George Arliss as Nathan, establishes a great banking firm in England, aids in toppling Napoleon from his throne, finances wars, and under the press of anti-semitic feeling, he stakes all his financial resources on the outcome of Waterloo. The story is an impressive historical document, vivid, exciting and powerful in its treatment. George Arliss shines above a distinguished cast of supporting players and comes near to giving his finest screen characterization. Others in the play include Loretta Young, Boris Karloff, Robert Young, Helen Westly and C. Aubrey Smith. Four star entertainment.

Orpheum: "Pleasure Cruise" and "What's Your Racket?" Love on a boat seems to be the theme song of the opening talkie, with indelible, rapid fire conversation and a sprinkling of comedy thrown in for good measure. Roland Young and Genevieve Tobin head the cast. "What's Your Racket?" offers Regis Toomey, Carrol Naish and Noel Francis in a crime expose drama.

Broadway: "Many Happy Returns." Gracie Allen of talkie and radio fame, is psychoanalyzed in this picture and before it is over, she drives the analyst crazy. That is all there is to the plot, and the show doesn't make any sense at any time, nor does it seem at all necessary. With Burns and Allen throwing the gags around with reckless abandon and the sweet music of Guy Lombardo and his orchestra, it is just as well to be without a plot. Joan Marsh is also in the cast as are Velez and Yolanda, famous dancing team.

Tomorrow
Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Death Takes a Holiday." A peculiar movie this, with a plot structure both unusual and interestingly worked out, and a fine cast headed by Fredric March, Evelyn Venable, Sir Guy Standing and Kent Taylor. It is the story of death, who grows tired of his job and who comes to earth in the role of a man to look around and taste life. He falls in love during his stay on earth, and as his stay is limited to hours, he knows he must either leave the girl on earth or take her with him. The decision rests with her, and she does what she considers the only thing worth doing. "The Avenger" is the second feature.

Broadway: "The Countess of Monte Christo" and "Back Stage Mystery." The first offering concerns a movie actress who rises from her low station in life to enact the role of a real countess. She has a lot of fun, but numerous complications crop up constantly during her pretending. Fay Wray and Paul Lukas are featured. "Back Stage Mysteries" is the second feature.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hornbeck and Mrs. J. Hornbeck and son, Homer, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keator of Pataukunk Sunday.

Richard Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Davis, had the misfortune to fall from a rock Sunday and break his arm at the elbow.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 10 (AP)—For the first time in several weeks, the stock market today showed signs of life and recovered hope.

In a relatively lively first hour, numerous issues recorded advances of 1 to around 2 points and, although the trading pace slowed down later, most gains were fairly well held.

Brokers were not in agreement as to the cause of the rally. In some quarters it was believed that a mild revival of inflationary psychology may have been the motivator while in others it was thought equities were beginning to discount an upturn in trade and industry. Technical factors were also given some credit.

Shares of U. S. Smelting were up 3 points, while gains of about 1 to about 2 included Alaska Juneau, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, American Can, American Telephone & Telegraph, International Paper, DuPont, Chrysler, Auburn, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, Sears, Roebuck, Continental Can, Johns-Manville, A. M. Ryer and Mesta Machine. Coca Cola registered another new top with an advance of nearly 2, and Lilly-Tulip Cup, recently inactive, developed a sizeable following with a gain of more than 2. Most of the utilities were only slightly higher.

the statements were about correct as he recalled. At 12:30, a special car left and arrived at Newark at 7 o'clock. The car was in charge of Pilot Smith and arrived at Newark at 7:30. The mail plane in charge of Pilot Kent left Albany at 7:10 and arrived in Newark at 9:35 and a second mail plane left in charge of Pilot Hunter at 7:35 and arrived at Newark at 9:10.

The regular route of express airplanes from Newark to Buffalo was by way of Elmira but the Albany-Syracuse route was an alternate route. He said there was no report available at his office on the Newark-Saratoga-Elmira route that day as to whether Garrett said that the Curtis-Condor plane which crashed was a ship of about 16,500 pounds weight. That day there were no thunder storms reported on the Newark-Albany route. Pilots usually ran on the radio beam along the route rather than over the river as a guide although the routes did vary some.

No Opinion On Course Taken
"What is your opinion as to why Pilot Holbrook cut across from Newburgh over the Catskill mountains?" asked Mr. Murray.

The witness said he did not know. He said he knew of no route west from Newburgh over the Catskills but he thought probably ships might have taken that air route.

Airline contact landing fields each half hour on the air route. However he said his field at Albany never made a contact with the liner which crashed. At no time did his field contact the ship although they should have had a contact at 5 o'clock even though the ship was not to touch at Albany. Since the ship was not to land at Albany he said he had received no instructions or report of its course. His port never told that Holbrook was deviating from the usual course up the river. It was 7 o'clock when he first heard of the ship being missing. Then Buffalo called and reported the ship overdue.

Lineman Testifies.
Harry Nesbit of Ellenville, a line-man, was the next witness. He said he had been to New York on June 9 and was returning. It was foggy along the river and cloudy. About 4 o'clock he arrived at Walden where he visited relatives. Between 4 and 6 o'clock he was near Walden when he heard a plane overhead. It was a large air-liner with two motors and it was the first time he had ever seen such a large ship on that course. It attracted his attention.

At the time it was rainy. There were trees by the house which he estimated were 80 or 90 feet high. The plane went over so close that the tops of the trees waved from the propellers. The plane he estimated was 50 or 75 feet above the trees and less than 200 feet from the ground. It flew in a northerly direction toward Walden and he did not see the ship was going to land at Walden Driving Park place it was a low. He observed the nose of the plane was wavering and he drove to the driving park to see the plane. However it did not land at the driving park, but continued on toward Pine Bush, flying low. The ceiling at the time was estimated as one-quarter to a half a mile. The motors of the ship were running slow and the motors made a "peculiar whistling sound." The plane gained some altitude as it went toward the Shawangunk mountains and over the race track hill. The Walden airport was about 2 miles from where he was visiting. The elevation of the Shawangunks he said was about 2,300 feet straight ahead. At that time it was misty, cloudy and foggy near the ground.

Garrett Recalled.
Mr. Garrett was recalled. He said if the plane was to land in Albany a clearance notice would have been sent. Even though the plane was taking an alternate course up the Hudson to a point near Albany and then west it would not be the practice to notify Albany of that fact.

He said that he could not recall of any specific instance where a plane was sent west from Newburgh over the Catskills but even though that was done Albany would not be so notified. Newark might be notified of such a fact. All he knew was that alternate routes were taken at times and planes started out on the Newark-Albany route and turned off at some point before reaching Albany.

Asked what planes would be turned off their route at a point near Newburgh he said he could not say. "To save gasoline," asked Mr. Murray. "I can't say," was the reply.

"Well, did you ever hear of any plane turning off the route near Newburgh and going west over the Catskills?" asked Murray.

"No I can't say I ever did," was the reply. He said they turned some place but since contact was made only every half hour he could not say where the route was changed.

Garageman Saw Plane.
Joseph Kelly, Pine Bush garage-man, was called. He saw a large plane with two motors, dark blue body and yellow or orange wings at 5:30 p. m., daylight saving time, fly over his place. It had two propellers and the plane was flying north-west. It was up about 1,000 feet flying toward the Shawangunk mountains. There was peculiar "ringing" noise to the motors. Both motors were running. It was cloudy. There were airports at Walden and Monticomey each about seven miles away. There were no thunder storms that day and when the plane passed it was not raining.

Mayor Floyd Ackery of Ellenville called. He was up near Briggs street that afternoon with George Tietjen. Mr. Ackery said he was a student pilot and had lessons from Ted Hallock, the pilot who spotted the wreck of the large air-liner on the mountain Monday afternoon, June 11. The plane was flying west of north and the motors were operating normally. It was about 440 or 550 feet. The elevation there is about 1,500 feet and the plane was over 400 feet over

MISS BARTLEY, who had been so violently that each of the seven prizes on her new picture had stood at a different angle. The effect was grotesque, little as she seemed it. Her thought was how wonderfully attractive it would appear in village eyes. Certainly it could not be copied by those who were not so fortunate, and tried her soul.

Worst among these offenders was Dolly Arnold—through the paradox that more than once she had come to the very edge of success. Dolly, a school teacher, was vacation-bound to be the pattern of primness to her pupils. Instead she indulged them by precept and example to trail after styles they could not possibly hope to approach—thereby, said Miss Bartley to her mates, they made themselves ridiculous caricatures of their betters.

In virtue of her fortune she had elected herself social leader of Oaktown—and so far she had got away with it. Almost in the cradle she had developed a crush upon all her belongings, and, especially, her figure—it was so statuesque. A fine tailor, given carte blanche, might have made the epithet descriptive. At the hands of a passionate mail-order catalogue addict, the result can be pictured only by a fluent imagination.

This fall the catalogues had, according to Jess Tree, the village oracle, "Done that d—est, just when they ought not." There was, you see, a drive on—for a trifle of a million endowment for X Y Z university, which had an Oaktown for president. Bright and early Monday, greatness of men and causes, would flood the town. A bishop, freshly widowed, headed the list, two senators supported him, flanked by congressmen and judges galore.

Hence the fluttering of the dove coats. Oaktown was to put it mildly, shy at least a dozen elights. Now for years there had been speculation as to how, when, where, and whether Sarah Bartley would find a man she'd think worth her taking. Not so young now, Sarah—twenty-six, maybe more. What wonder Oaktown all but unanimously elected the coming bishop her predestined mate!

Oaktown made holiday gaily—put on its best looks, clothes, mood. The great in procession passed up and down and at last its limits, smiling, saluting, swapping merry banter with the natives. Sarah Bartley had elected to meet them at the train.

And Dolly was to sing on the great occasion—not alone but leading an Elvish chorus of ten small green-clad girls she had been training in strict privacy for a month. Billy Gardner had made that possible—his big empty house had given due exercise space. After listening once or twice he had smiled, nodded, and said off-handedly to Dolly: "We'll have a float, all leaves and flowers and things—surprise the crowd with it just as the bishop finishes—after they're done some one shall say those golden voices are samples of our native ones—wanting to work the mine is why we need capital."

At earliest dawn of the great day Oaktown began to stir and thrill. Things went like clockwork. The parade formed and filed magically, and got under way without a single hitch. Sarah Bartley in the forefront, had never felt finer—nor looked worse. She thought the bishop at her side was impressed.

He was—but not exactly as she would have chosen him to be. Maybe she took his breath, else maybe the cat got his tongue. He spoke something hurriedly less than twenty minutes instead of the hour everybody had come to hear. Then in waltzed a string band specially ordered by Billy Gardner—and to its last sweet strains there rolled majestically in front of the stand what seemed a magic miniature forest, with elves perched here and there, showing now a head, now a dimpled hand, now the dancing flicker of a small lovely foot. Then as a hidden somebody drew a long lovely chord from a fine old fiddle, there came music such as Oaktown had never before heard. Dolly, ambushed in thick greenery, sang her very best—high golden notes that accented the young chanting. Not long drawn out—twelve minutes at the most. Then came Ned Woodruff to take the crowd by storm—in the midst of which the bishop held up a silencing hand as he rose to say: "A wholly new experience, my friends! Who before us has listened to elfin music, led by the voice of an angel!"

After that things had to go with a rush—there was hardly a bit of use for organized enthusiasm—money came galumphing, popping, pouring in on every hand. Everybody caught the spirit of giving.

Dolly stood palpitant—pulled into the limelight against her will. Sarah Bartley had called out with a high thrill, "A thousand more right here! Anybody want to top it?"

"I do," from Gardner, turning to face the bishop as he spoke. "Will ten thousand extra tempt you to marry me right off the reel? Been waiting a long time to have a bishop handy—"

"With all my heart," cried the bishop. "The bride—where is she?"

"Also waiting—I picked her out the day she was born," Gardner said solemnly. "But I dared not tell her so until all things were ready—"

"Ah!" said the bishop with his most benevolent intonation: "I understand. Let the good work go forward."

MILTON

Family of New York were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran Boyle.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Farrell and son, Roger, of New York, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran Boyle. Mrs. Charles Farrell, of White Plains, is spending the summer with Herbert Bell.

At a meeting of the Maids and Matrons Tuesday afternoon it was voted to assume signatures of Milton people as to their opinion on school centralization for submission to the various organizations and other groups in Milton. It seems that the Albany officials are especially anxious to know what Milton people think.

Raspberries were selling Friday morning in New York city markets at prices varying from 5c to 15c a pint. Prices depended on the firmness and size of the berries.

SATURDAY'S STORM SEVERE IN MILTON AND VICINITY

Milton, July 10.—Much damage was done in Milton and vicinity Saturday afternoon by the cyclone which struck here about 5:30 p. m. Large trees torn up or blown down on the telephone and electric lines on Sands avenue and state road S.W.

In Milton village there were no street lights during the night. J. Harold Clarke and Son's roadside market south of the village was torn down and its contents carried a long distance. Large trees in front of Birdall Taber's residence were torn up and electric wires damaged. The same was done on and near the Willow Tree road. Fruit trees on Frank Woods farm north of the village were also uprooted. Trees on the North road were blown down, damaging the telephone and electric wires. Men from the Central Hudson Electric Corp. and the telephone company were at work all night repairing the damages.

It was the worst storm that this section has had in several years. The streets in Milton village were nearly flooded and some of the trees in the Methodist cemetery were damaged. Some of the headstones in the cemetery were also blown down. A small building on the cemetery grounds was also carried away.

Road Supervisor Percy Bunker and his men were busy during the evening clearing up the fallen trees from the streets in and around Milton village. The lightning was like sheets of fire and very blinding to the automobilists and those walking on the streets.

HUNTING STAMP BY "DING" TO HELP RESTORE WATERFOWL

When hunters plunk down a dollar for the new Federal hunting stamp at their nearest post office, they will receive no ordinary carrier of mudgill. Nearly twice the size of a special-delivery stamp, the hunting stamp shows a waterfowl scene which is the work of J. N. ("Ding") Darling, who was a nationally known cartoonist long before he became chief, a few months ago, of the Biological Survey, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"No one, however," says Mr. Darling, "is under any obligation to kill a duck just because he owns a Federal hunting stamp, nor is there any rule to prevent a man who wants to help restore the migratory waterfowl from purchasing several of these duck-saving stamps. Every dollar will be devoted to the cause of conservation."

Authorized by the recent Congress and to be issued shortly by the Post Office Department, the new stamp will be on sale at post offices in all county seats, in all towns with populations of 2,500 or more, and in certain waterfowl centers. The sale of stamps will provide funds to help conserve ducks and geese and other migratory waterfowl by the establishment of sanctuaries. Everyone over 16 years of age who hunts migratory waterfowl is required to have a Federal hunting stamp in his possession, affixed to the regular State hunting license or to a special certificate furnished by the postmaster if a hunting license is not required.

MORE ARRESTS FORESHADOW FRENCH SPY QUESTIONING

Paris, July 10 (AP)—Further arrests in France's latest drive on an international spy ring was foreshadowed today by police investigations in the suburbs of Paris.

Warrants were issued yesterday for seven persons and authorities ordered the questioning of an American woman, Pauline Jacobson, 32-year-old native of New York.

She was believed to have left France.

Officials said they wanted to ask her whether she served as a go-between for Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Switz, Americans held on espionage charges since December, and Benjamin Bercoff, called by police a leader of the spy ring.

The ring allegedly was working for Soviet Russia.

FREEMAN WANT ADS BRING RESULTS!

How New Tire SENSATION smashes DEPRESSION BARRIERS!

Tremendous welcome of new "G-3" — marvel tire that gives 43% more non-skid mileage — keeps Goodyear factories and dealers on jump!

A 1934 success story that shows how the American people will buy when you build what they want

LANK and angular he stood there—one of the nation's greatest research engineers. Conviction shone in his eyes as he spoke these words:

"If it were up to me to whip depression, I'd put a big billboard in front of every factory in the land, with this burning message: 'GIVE US SOMETHING NEW AND GOOD AND WE WILL BUY IT'—signed 'THE AMERICAN PUBLIC'."

There is more than psychology in that statement—there is truth—and here's the finest evidence in the world—the evidence of sales.

How a tire started a stampede

Ten weeks ago people opened their morning papers and read the story of a new tire—a spectacular tire—known by the factory job number "G-3".

Eagerly eyes ran through the facts—for here was something the people wanted—a tire proved by grueling days and nights on the test feet—a tire with 43% longer non-skid mileage than the former All-Weather—a tire that kept its grip twice as long as other tires tested against it.

Then things happened! By the thousands and tens of thousands car owners headed for Goodyear dealers. All over the country they demanded the new "G-3".

This is no exaggeration. You should see the reports that rolled into headquarters at Akron. Excited dealers wrote, wired, called in by phone.

"We're breaking sales records!"
"We're swamped with business!"
"We're having the biggest sales in history!"
"We're selling whole sets of the new 'G-3'!"
"Sold 37 tires!"
"sold 50 tires!"
"sold 200 tires the first day," ran the figures from all over the country.

What you get in the "G-3" All-Weather
Such instantaneous success sprang

After 15,000 miles of hard use, much of it at high speed, these "G-3" tires have plenty of tread left. S.O.S., Portland, Ore.

To date I have received more than double the mileage . . . and the diamond tread is still showing. A. G. R., Clarkburg, W. Va.

After 15,000 miles the tread on these "G-3" tires looks almost like new. Any previous tires were smooth or worn out of service before 15,000 miles. J. P. S., Portsmouth, O.

All over the country . . . car owners headed for Goodyear dealers

Just the other day I saved myself from a serious accident because of the wonderful grip on your new "G-3". O. G., Portland, Ore.

The "G-3" is the answer to the motorist's prayer. W. D. W., Solihull, Pa.

Warning!

Look at the NON-SKID in the center of this tread—the spot that counts, because that's where the tread contacts the ground. When it comes to safety, insurance figures show that 54% of all accidents are due to skidding as to blowouts and punctures combined. Remember this when others try to duplicate what the "G-3" gives you: You have to have "NON-SKID" before any tire can give you "NON-SKID MILEAGE" and safety—and you have to have Goodyear Super-tread beneath this type of tread to make it a real success.

... these "G-3" tires have delivered the best non-skid mileage that I have ever obtained. E. M. W., Hartford, Conn.

These tires have run 21,000 miles . . . the non-skid still appears on the tread. R. H., Orlando, Fla.

I have received 50% more non-skid from these "G-3's" than I ever got before. H. T. H., Adena, O.

The non-skid stayed on these "G-3's" longer than any tire I ever used. H. S. H., Ft. Myers, Fla.

from this vital fact—Goodyear actually had a wonder tire—had actually spent close to two years developing, testing, perfecting it. And here's what this great new "G-3" gives you: A broader, flatter, heavier tread—A tread with an average of 2 pounds more rubber per tire—

A tread with 16% more non-skid blocks in the center—

A tread with the extra-durability and extra-resilience of patented Goodyear Super-tread beneath it to stand up under the extra weight and strain—

A tread that gives 43% more miles of real non-skid safety at no extra cost!

Any wonder this "G-3" is a sensation! Any wonder more people are buying the new "G-3" than any other tire in the world!

All Star Teams Are Ready Hubbell And Gomez To Start Boxes Chocolate On Wednesday

By ALAN GOULE
Associated Press Sports Editor

New York, July 10 (AP)—In command of two picked squads of the greatest players in baseball, instead of mere pennant winners, Memphis Bill Terry and Fresno Joe Cronin today pick up the threads of personal rivalry again, with inter-league prestige and supremacy at stake in the national game's most glamorous show.

Each eager to win—Terry to prove the National League still are at the crest of a winning wave and Cronin to demonstrate that he has the playing weapons to turn the tables on his 1933 World Series conqueror—they called the roll of greats for the second annual all-star major league game, now become a mid-season institution of national life.

Barring some sudden and unexpected switch of plans before game-time—12:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) at the Polo Grounds—Terry is to start off as a duel between the two greatest left-handers in baseball, Carl Owen Hubbell of the Giants and Vernon (Goofy) Gomez of the Yankees, and wind up with a flock of fast-ball right-handers attempting to horse-collar the best hitters in either league.

As a tipoff on what there was in store for the fingers, the American League for the second straight year held the Home Run King, Jimmie Foxx, in reserve as a pinch-hitter or possible replacement for the celebrated iron man, Lou Gehrig, who hasn't missed starting a game during the regular season for ten years and will keep his record intact this afternoon.

With the promise of fair weather and slightly rising temperature, upwards of 50,000 spectators were expected to jam the big National League Park and see their dreams come true, depending on what they may have been dreaming about and where their partnership lies. The fans had the first crack at nominating the 20 players selected for each league's all-star parade. Their manifest interest has satisfied the managers that the game serves an unique purpose, successfully, and their contribution to the gate receipts means a boon to the funds now accumulating for old or indigent ball players.

A capacity crowd today would mean close to $40,000 for charitable cause after expenses have been paid. John A. Heydler, president of the National League, pointed out that the Majors sacrificed two mid-season playing dates, in order to stage the contest, but declared it was "worth it" and expressed the hope it will be rotated among all the Major League cities annually.

The probable starting lineups:
American League—Charley Gehring, Tigers, 2b; Heinie Manush, Senators, 1b; Babe Ruth, Yankees, rf; Lou Gehrig, Yankees, 1b; Frank Higgins, Athletics, 3b; Al Simmons, White Sox, cf; Joe Cronin, Senators, ss; Bill Dickey, Yankees, c; Vernon Gomez, Yankees, p.

National League—Frank Frisch, Cardinals, 2b; Harold Traynor, Pirates, 3b; Joe Medwick, Cardinals, 1b; Kiki Cuyler, Cubs, rf; Wally Berger, Braves, cf; Bill Terry, Giants, 1b; Larry Vaughan, Pirates, ss; Gabby Hartnett, Cubs, c; Carl Hubbell, Giants, p.

Umpires—American League: Clarence Owens and George Moriarty; National League: Charles Pfirman and Dolly Stark.

Time of game—12:30 p. m. (eastern standard time).
Probable attendance and receipts—50,000 and $50,000.

Western Amateur Golf Gets Under Way Today

Oklahoma City, July 10 (AP)—The Western Amateur Golf Tournament got under way today in the first of the two 18-hole qualifying tests over the sunbaked though sporty Twin Hills course.

Fairways were spotted with red sandy soil outcropping through the sparse grass, but the greens were in perfect shape for the shelling against Twin Hills' difficult par 35-35-70.

In the field of more than 150 were the defending champion, Jack Westland of Chicago, and two of his fellow townsmen who formerly held the title—Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., eight times winner, and Johnny Lehman, the 1936 champion.

Wallkill Prison Nine Drops Slug Fest, 10-8

Wallkill, July 10—Plenty of slugging by both teams was the feature of the defeat of the Wallkill Prison nine today by a fast team representing Thompson's Inn of Newburgh, who won by the score of 10-8. The Newburgh nine got to Ronk and O'Neill for 8 singles while the home team collected seven safeties off Palmer.

Although the home team grabbed the lead in the first frame by hammering in three runs to the Newburgh nine's one, in the third inning the visitors gained the lead and held it until the finish. The Wallkill nine will cross bats Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in a twilight game with the Wallkill River Grange of New Hampton, at the "Little Yankee" stadium here.

One of the prize games of the 1934 season has been scheduled for L. W. Davis, director of recreation, for the Prison lads on Sunday, July 15th when they meet the snappy Greenwich Village Orioles of New York city on the home diamond at 2:30 o'clock. The Gotham boys have been piling up some sensational victories this season and a fast ball game is anticipated.

High Quest Is Out of $45,000 Feature Race

Chicago, July 10 (AP)—Cavalade, the season's standout three-year-old, will not have an opportunity in Arlington Park's classic stakes Saturday to get even with his stablemate, High Quest, for his only defeat of the year.

Bob Smith, trainer for Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade stable, announced last night the withdrawal of High Quest from the $45,000 feature, because of lameness. Instead, Good Goods, which won a mile race in 1:37 at Arlington yesterday, will be Cavalade's running mate.

High Quest outfooted Cavalade in the Preakness, and they have not met since.

JIM LONDOS ORDERED TO MEET STRANGLER LEWIS

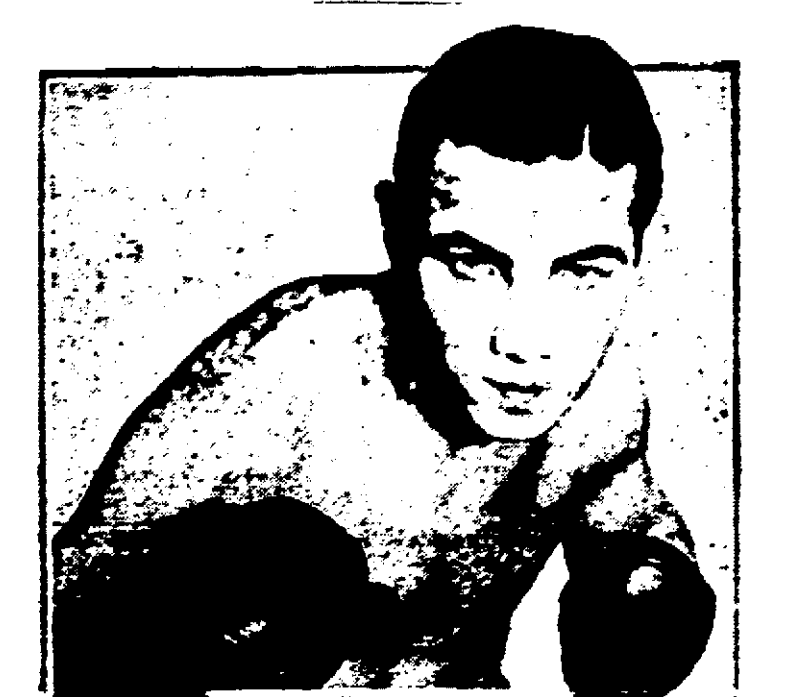

Chicago, July 10 (AP)—Jim Londos, wrestling champion, was ordered by the Illinois Athletic Commission to meet Ed (Strangler) Lewis in a title match within 90 days, an encounter which would net him a $40,000 guarantee or a privilege of 40 per cent of the net gate receipts.

The order was made yesterday when Ed White, manager of Londos, asked two weeks of grace to consider the offer of Joe Foley, general manager of the Chicago Stadium Operating Company, at those terms.

Sheep Business

Sheep are raised on every continent except Antarctica. Australia is the biggest producer of wool, while India and China are leading sheep countries, says Pathfinder Magazine. Argentina leads other South American countries in the production of wool and mutton. Africa's stocks graze mainly over its two extremities, along the Mediterranean sea on the north and in South Africa. Every country in Europe raises sheep, but they are comparatively scarce in the northern countries of Norway, Sweden, and Finland. The United States, with more than 30,000,000 head, leads the North American countries.

Petey Hayes, Local Favorite, Boxes Chocolate On Wednesday

PETEY HAYES

One of the greatest little fighters, Petey's end of the purse will amount to at least $2,000. Frankie Jacobs, his manager, asserts.

Besides Hayes, local boxing fans have a great interest in two other fighters on the same card—Lou Ambers and Jimmy Leto. Ambers, who fought in the amateurs here as Otis Paradise, is matched with Roger Bernard for 10 rounds and Jimmy Leto, brother of Tony, who was in the Walk Miller camp at Eddyville, is down to battle Harry Torres, Cuban contender, at the Municipal Auditorium for the American Legion welfare fund, packing Morro vs. Joe Doherty, six, and the house. He and Chocolate are expected to draw a capacity crowd.

THE Sportlight BY GRANTLAND RICE

The Ghost Parade.

There will be ghosts along the green. There will be ghosts that haunt the scene. From Anson's rule and Kelly's reign. When Matty knew his golden prime And Delehanty stalked the plain— All names that still belong to time.

You'll hear the tread of Keeler, Gore, And others who will play no more— Toad Ramsey and the great Waddell, Sam Crawford and his mighty mace. Lost echoes from the green-turfed dell When Donovan still held his pace.

Their names are written in the rust Of records lifted from the dust; And yet they blazed the open trail Where Terry, Foxx and Cochrane wait— Where Gehrig swings with flashing flail And Ruth is walking to the plate.

Then and Now.

"To get your help in deciding an argument," writes H. F., "how would a team picked from the two squads that meet at the Polo Grounds compare with a team picked from other years? Hasn't baseball improved just as other sports have?"

This won't decide any argument. It will only help to start one. Suppose the pick of the two star teams that meet today had to meet the following:

Catchers—Kling and Bresnahan.
Pitchers—Mathewson, Johnson, Walsh, Waddell and Alexander.
First Base—Slater or Chase.
Second Base—Eddie Collins.
Short Stop—Honus Wagner.
Third Base—Jimmy Collins.
Outfield—Cobb, Speaker, Jackson, Sheppard.
My vote would go to this team against any picked outfit that might be named today.

Gomez, Hubbell, Dean and others can handle their share of pitching, but that old-time staff, in its prime, would be even harder to hit or break down—even with Gehrig, Foxx, Ruth, Gehring, Terry, Klein, Ott and Manush taking their cut at the ball.

Slipping a hit through this infield or hammering one by the outfield named would be something of an order to fill. Baseball has never seen a better hitting-fielding combination around second than Collins and Wagner.

For all that, today's menu offers all the choice that anyone could want. The time may come when there will be preliminary world series played on this same basis. Why not?

The Largest Season.

Unless there is a sudden turn in the general situation where some one team in each league puts on a runaway act—baseball is headed for its biggest season as far as attendance records go.

New York, Boston, Detroit and Cleveland are far ahead of other years—at least the last three are. Chicago has been playing to a big trade and St. Louis has picked up considerably.

The combined attendance totals of the two leagues should run into record figures if the bunched up standings remain unchanged a few weeks longer.

Boston, always a great ball town, has finally drawn a pair of teams worth looking at.

Mickey Cochrane's gallant stand in Detroit has found even keener interest than the Tigers of 25 years ago stirred up when Cobb, Crawford and Veach made up a pretty fair outfield.

Naming the Best.

The best infield I ever saw on any one team was McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker of the Athletics.

The Chance, Evers, Tinker, Steinfeldt combination of the Cubs was not so far back and neither was the Keeler, Frisch, Bancroft, Groh infield of the Giants.

And there are old-timers who still stick by the old Boston delegation which carried Tenney, Lowe, Long and Collins. This latter infield was always the late Bill Hanna's choice—and Bill knew his baseball from the cellar to the roof.

The best outfield I ever saw on any one team was made up of Speaker, Lewis and Hooper of the Red Sox, with Cobb, Crawford and Veach of the Tigers in close pursuit.

The best pitching staff on any one team worked for the Athletics—their names being Plank, Bender, Waddell and Coakley.

Before moving on, another outfield was that comprising Sheppard, Hoffman and Schulte of the old Cubs.

If there was a better pitching staff than that of the Athletics just mentioned, the award should go to Chesbro, Phillips, Leever and Tannehill of the 1902 or 1903 Pirates. They pitched six shut-outs in one stretch.

The Giant staff consisting of Hubbell, Schumacher, Fitzsimmons and Parmelee was nothing to his last season—nor is it this season.

Some of the most effective pitching ever shown came from Walsh, Altrock and White of the 1906 White Sox, and from Rudolph, Tyler and James of the 1914 Braves.

QUESTION BOX By ED WYNN... The Puritan Poet

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have just written a song. The lyrics are very sad. They are about a young man talking about his made love to a young girl and of her promise to marry him, then of the day before the wedding she tells him she will not marry him because she doesn't love him. I don't have any money. Will you please give me a suitable title for my song?

Yours truly
ART ISTION

Answer—The best title for your song (according to the above description) would be "She Looked Me Up in Bradstreet's, Now I'm Down."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Is it true that a Scotchman loves HIS whisky?

Sincerely,
JACK K. K.

Answer—It is true that he loves whisky, but not "his." He loves some one else's.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a young lady 22 years of age and considered very pretty. I am keeping company with three young men about my own age. Is it all right for me to go with three different fellows?

Yours truly,
I. M. A. FLIRT.

Answer—It is not all right if the other two find it out.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
In the government income tax notice, mention is always made of "A Full Return." What do you think that means?

Sincerely,
D. LINQUENZ.

Answer—To me "A Full Return" always means when a man comes back home drunk.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I hear a great deal of talk about "Mermaids." I don't believe there are such things, do you? If so, maybe you are smart enough to tell me where they sleep?

Sincerely,
C. BEAST.

Answer—My dear child, "Mermaids" when they are little babies sleep in "the cradle of the deep," and when they grow up, "in the bed of the ocean."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have heard several authors of books referred to as "chemists." I know some authors have different degrees conferred on them, but never "chemist." Can you tell me what makes an author a "chemist"?

Truly yours,
I REED ALOTT.

Answer—An author is called a "chemist" when his book becomes a drug on the market.

"Foolscap" Paper

The original dimensions of "foolscap" paper were 13 by 16 inches. Today, says G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times, paper so described is usually 8 by 13 inches, the equivalent of the original-sized sheet folded once over and cut. Its name is traced of a very ancient error, that of corrupting into "foolscap" the original spelling, which was "foglio-capo," meaning, in Italian "folio-head." This error led in the Middle Ages to impressing upon such paper a watermark depicting a fool's head with cap and bells, the insignia of the court jester of the time.

Greek Culture in Old Egypt

Astonishing proof of the extent to which Greek culture and art had penetrated Egypt and Nile valley in the five centuries following the accession of Ptolemy I was unearthed at Hermopolis, where murals of Homeric legends were found. Supporting this painted testimony is a series of small temples and tombs which, when cleared, showed a strange admixture of Greek architecture to the customary Egyptian forms.—Literary Digest.

"Charlie Horse"

This slang term "Charley horse" is limited to the United States, and denotes the stiffening of the muscles of arm or leg from excessive use, as by an athlete. The term was first applied to a horse afflicted with a form of muscular atrophy known as wryneck, according to the Literary Digest. Although the stiffening occurs most frequently among baseball players, it may be experienced by anyone, especially by one engaged in strenuous exercise. Movement of the injured part is generally attended by severe pain.

HERS!

HOME may be heaven to you after a day at the office but it's just another name for workshop to your wife.

Poking around the garden and the neighborhood golf course may be your idea of a perfectly swell way to spend two weeks this summer but then you won't have to answer the doorbell, shoo away peddlers, cook the dinners, wash the dishes, bathe the children and make the beds—or wear the same house dress day in and day out all summer long.

Why not give her the thrill of her sweet life and take her on a real vacation this year.

Why not slip off and forget about kitchen sinks and grocery bills? Why not meet new people and tramp all day just so you can kick off your shoes and wiggle your toes in a brook? Why not give your weary nerves a chance to relax so you can be your swell, good-natured self? Why not fall head-over-heels in love again with the wonderful girl your married? Why not—when it costs so downright little! Figure what you save on food and gas and light and you may even come out money ahead. Especially if you do your vacation-shopping through the Daily Freeman.

Get out your pencil and check the "going away" ads in this newspaper right now for what you need. Daily Freeman advertisers are offering sports tags, golf needs, fishing tackle, beach wear and loads of other things at special prices. You'll get the thrill of your life when you see how much you can buy for so little. But act now. Don't put it off a minute longer. Manifold Ways in Which the Banks Are Serving the Nation

Handling Millions of Transactions Daily for Individuals, Corporations and State and National Governments—The Structure Strengthened and Deserving of Public Faith

By FRANCIS MARION LAW,
President American Bankers Association

The banks of the nation provide the machinery through which pass every dollar of checks and drafts aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars.

The banks are largely financing the Federal Government in its Recovery Program, involving the greatest peace-time expenditures ever known.

Likewise, the banks are largely financing the current needs of states, counties, cities, public schools and other public institutions, all of which have immediately to do with the daily affairs of all of the people.

Each day racks throughout the country are making hundreds of thousands of new loans and they are renewing and extending old loans for the accommodation of a vast number of borrowers, these borrowers being individuals, corporations and partnerships and other loans being incident to agricultural, industrial and trade in every community in the land.

The banks, through their trust departments, are continuing the work which they have faithfully carried on throughout the depression and are providing trust funds placed in their care against the worst shrinkage of values known. Included in this activity is the service the banks are performing in connection with administering the affairs of widows and orphans.

The banks, through the medium of their savings and thrift deposit departments, are furnishing safety for the accumulations of many millions of people and on this class of deposits a reasonable interest is paid.

Banks are providing a service for the safe-deposit and safe-keeping of the possessions, papers and securities of a very large number of people.

The officers of banks are unselfishly giving advice and counsel to the people of their communities, thereby to a considerable extent guiding their daily financial and fiscal affairs during this most difficult period of disturbance.

The Banking Structure Strengthened.
The banking structure as it is today has been greatly strengthened and the process of strengthening still goes on. Banking is not a closed science. The banking system which we have had was not good enough, and I earnestly believe that an able and non-partisan commission should be set up to make a study of our numerous banking laws to the end that a properly correlated banking system might be worked out and submitted for consideration to the next Congress.

A good system would include rigid requirements as to management, intelligent and impartial supervision and, in due time, unification of supervision. Such a system, composed of banks adequately capitalized, capably managed and conscientiously supervised, would eliminate any possibility of a recurrence of what has happened in the past four years.

The temporary Federal deposit insurance plan under which deposits in banks up to $2,500 for each account are insured has been in effect for six months and has proven a potent factor in restoring confidence. Only two small banks out of over fourteen thousand holding membership in the fund have failed during this six months' period. The temporary plan has been extended very wisely for a year, and the amount of the insured deposit has been increased to $5,000, thus insuring in full over 95% in number of the depositors in the country's banks.

Hoarded money is returning to the banks and deposits are showing a vast increase. Banks everywhere are super-lucent, meaning that they have an unusually heavy proportion of their deposits in cash. There are two kinds of unemployment in this country—unemployment of men and unemployment of dollars. These men and these dollars must be put to work. Banks in strong and highly liquid condition are prepared and determined to do their proper part in putting money to work.

Requisites for Grants of Bank Credit.
That brings me to the all important question of the granting of credit by banks. Two things are necessary to increase bank credit:

1. The banks must be liquid and confident in their own strength.

2. Business men must further lay their fears and regain confidence to the point where they will dare to think and plan ahead.

The first requisite is accomplished. The second is in process. Bank credits will increase and money will go to work as soon as business men get over their delinquent habit of borrowing and this will be when they begin to see profits within their reach.

In past depressions the real movement of the expansion in bank credit has always come after general business recovery got under way and not before. The number of good credit risks is increasing daily. Not in any time have good borrowers been so warmly welcomed at banks as they are today. Nevertheless there have been such competitors for good loans, not has the interest rate ever been so low. Every sound business in the country today can get what money it needs.

A Return of Normal Lending.
Banks are badly needing loans for revenue purposes, and now that confidence in banks has been largely restored they are naturally returning to a more normal lending policy. Before the bank holiday the confidence of the people was shattered. The thought of the safety of their funds. Withdrawals from banks became increasingly heavy and general. Under such circumstances the banker, mindful of his primary responsibility to his depositors, was more concerned in the collection of loans than in the making of new loans. The result was a severe contraction of credit. For this the banker should not be blamed. He simply performed his manifold duty.

Banks at this time are very properly viewing the credit needs of business with serious and sympathetic consideration. Applicants for loans are not always familiar with the rules governing bank credit and constructive and interested help on the part of the banker will bring about the making of many additional loans, without doing violence to any principle of good banking.

Certainly no one would advocate the making of unsound loans by banks. The creation of a large volume of unsound loans would not only weaken the banks—it would prolong the depression and wipe out some of the gains already made. It is to be earnestly hoped that no banker will yield under the pressure of his desire for earnings, or for any other reason, and make loans of the wrong sort. John Otley of Atlanta, in a recent address, said—"The plan of lending freely and hoping for the best has never proven wise."

There are many needs for credit of kinds which are not within the province of commercial banks to meet. Likewise there are many types of credit facilities available—enough, it would seem, to meet the requirements of all classes of worthy borrowers.

The Duty of Every Banker.
It is clearly the duty of every banker in the country to perform certain services. The most important are:

1. To afford perfect safety for deposits.

2. To grant credit to those who deserve it.

In the matter of credits the public must in fairness remember that commercial banks are not lending their own money, but the money of their depositors, represented very largely by the earnings and savings of the people. The people who own these deposits have accumulated them through years of labor and sacrifice, and in many cases the deposit represents their all. These depositors have the right to call for their money at any time, or at most on short notice. Deposits constitute a sacred trust.

There are certain basic principles in sound banking that must be held onto even in this period of change, but the progressive banker must be responsive to changing conditions and he must be active in seeking proper opportunities to meet the sound needs of his customers.

In a recent message to Congress, the President said—"I am greatly hoping that repeated promises that private investment and private initiative to relieve the government in the immediate future of much of the burden which it has assumed will be fulfilled."

Repeated assurance has been given by the Administration that there is no desire on its part to continue government lending a moment longer than is necessary and that at the earliest possible time the government will gladly give way to the banks and other lending institutions. This, of course, is as it should be and we are all earnestly looking forward to the time when private initiative and enterprise shall have recovered its vitality sufficiently to throw government crutches away.

Numerous bank failures have created in the minds of many a grossly exaggerated idea as to the losses of depositors in closed banks. The record indicates that depositors in banks which closed in the past three years will realize on an average about 65c on the dollar. That would mean a loss of 35%. It has been estimated that during the depression the average value of investments in stocks lost about 90%; bonds similarly declined approximately 60% and commodities 41%.

Deposits in sound banks continued to be worth 100% throughout the depression and 90% of the bank deposits of the country were not affected.

Bankers Deserve Confidence.
The country can have full confidence in the integrity and competence of the bankers of the country. Out of the lessons of the last few years has come experience that will be valuable to the banker and to his community. He can be counted on to show a proper appreciation of his responsibilities and obligations and to take his place among those who are making earnest and unselfish effort to promote recovery. He is not infallible, but with every power that lies within him I believe he may be depended upon to fulfill his duty as a custodian of the people's money, as a dispenser of credit and as a God-fearing American citizen imbued with sincere regard for the common good.

Kingston Savings And Loan Becomes Member Of Federal Home Loan

The Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association has just received from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of Washington, D. C., its certificate of membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank of New York, N. J., the regional federal bank of this District.

The accompanying letter states that "this action has been taken only after your officers were requested to furnish a considerable amount of information which was submitted to a most careful analysis and then passed on to our executive committee. There it was thoroughly discussed and forwarded to Washington with a recommendation that your association be admitted into this system."

The letter further states "We wish to compliment you upon the high percentage of your home mortgages to total mortgages, namely 95.6 per cent. The experience of many years has shown that this is the safest type of mortgage security for the handling of which building and loan associations are particularly well equipped."

This new affiliation with the Federal Home Loan Bank brings the Kingston Co-operative into the Federal Banking System, with all the prestige and advantages of such connection and making available to the local association all the funds necessary or desired to handle home financing loans for new buildings and refinancing called mortgages, as well as for alterations, improvements, repairs, etc.

Federal supervision is now added to state supervision, bringing added strength, financial security and progressiveness to the local association. The Association is much gratified in having been accepted by the Federal Bank as a member and has placed the framed certificate of membership beside the framed certificate of Share No. 1 issued in 1892 to the late Dr. E. H. Loughran, the Kingston Co-operative's first President, upon the walls of the association office at 293 Wall Street.

ORTONE'S BAND TO GIVE CONCERT AT DEWITT LAKE

Ortone's famous band of Newburgh, under the able direction of Prof. Ernest Ortone, who has many band music classes in schools in Orange county, will give a concert in the pavilion on the beach overlooking Dewitt Lake, during the afternoon of Sunday, July 15.

Mr. Ortone has become widely known during the past years because of the high type concerts given by his band members in many of the larger churches and auditoriums in the state. These concerts have drawn capacity houses wherever given.

A new picnic grove is being opened on the west side of Dewitt Lake in the pines overlooking the water, where new tables are being placed.

Free your Family of Coal Shovel Slavery—Get into the Sunshine of Low Cost Oil-O-Matic Hushed Heat!

TODAY Oil-O-Matic is selling at its all time low—a price made possible only by the present low cost of fine materials. Why not buy now before prices rise—why not make sure that your wife will not shiver another winter? Oil-O-Matic now heats 150,000 homes throughout the world—a greater number than any other oil burner. Williams Oil-O-Matic pioneered oil heating sixteen years ago—invented and developed many of its patented mechanical features. In fact, if you were to strip an Oil-O-Matic of its many unique, wholly exclusive features—such as the Williams Metering Pump and the Atomizing Device and others—you would have an oil burner similar to other oil burners which sell at about the same price!

Thousands of Oil-O-Matic owners report operating expenses less than the cost of hand-firing! That's because Oil-O-Matic burns heavy, low cost fuel oil, which not only costs less, but is far richer in heat-units than the lighter oils most burners use. A very small initial payment and generously easy terms will put Oil-O-Matic in your furnace or boiler. Telephone, or stop in, and arrange for a FREE Heating Survey of your home.
